					Asis, it is not feasible to keep the product price fixed for a period of one year. The approved raw material is entirely imported, and its price has increased by more than 60% over the last four months due to significant market volatility. We therefore request you to consider incorporating a price variation mechanism linked to the prevailing imported raw material prices. This will ensure fair pricing for both parties while enabling us to maintain a consistent supply of quality products throughout the contract period
